

The President's Faculty Award 2015

The President's Faculty Award is awarded annually to an individual faculty member who reflects the University of Baltimore faculty's highest standards. President Schmoke is continuing this annual $5,000 award initiated by President Bogomolny in 2004 to celebrate and support the outstanding accomplishments of UB faculty.

The award will be presented at a dedicated luncheon during fall convocation week. The celebration will include a brief talk by the award recipient, which may highlight her or his professional work, personal reflections on teaching, or perspectives on supporting UB student success.

Criteria

The President's Faculty Award is given each year to a faculty member who has made significant contributions to the University of Baltimore and its educational mission. The award winner's record of accomplishments will include some combination of excellence in teaching; research; scholarly and creative activity; and service.

All full-time faculty members with five or more years of service completed at UB by the date of the award are eligible. The selection committee will consider accomplishments achieved during the five years immediately preceding the award announcement.

Nominating and submission process

The President's Faculty Award Selection Committee will be convened by the associate provost of academic affairs. The committee will comprise faculty members from each of UB's four colleges and will include the past two award recipients.

Any faculty member or dean may nominate an eligible faculty member, with the consent of that faculty member. Nominations should be in letter form and provide evidence that the nominee meets the criteria outlined above. The selection committee will then notify nominated candidates and request a curriculum vitae and supporting statement, not to exceed 2,000 words, which align the candidate's accomplishments with the award criteria.

After reviewing all submissions, the selection committee will forward to the president its top three candidates. The award winner will be celebrated at a dedicated event during fall convocation week.
